

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

KITTY OF THE SHERRAGH VANE.

PART I.

THE Sherragh Vane
Is up Sulby glen,
High up, my men—
High up—you'll not see a sight of it
From the road at all,
By rayson of the height of it—
Terbil high ; and a little skute¹
Of a waterfall,
Slip-sloppin from the root
Of an ould kern²—
You know the turn
At the Bridge, and the Chapel?

² Mountain ash.

Well, in on the gate,
Behind there, that's the road, like straight
For Druid-a-whapple;
And just you're passin
The School, and up you go—
A track—a track, you know,
On the side of the brew,¹ criss-crassin,²
Till you'll come out on the top like a landin,
And the house standin
Two fields back--
And all that steep
You can't see the river, not the smallest peep,
Nor the gill, nor nothin; but lookin right over
At Snaefell,
By Jove! or
Barrule, or Slieu Core—
'Deed, you'll have to be cayful³
With cows and the lek; and no road for a cart
Up yandher place,

But comin in from another art,¹

About nor-wes',

Ballagh way? Yes.

That's the road they were doin the haulin—

Tear the people was goin a-callin—

Nicholas' Tear—that's Nicky-Nick-Nick—

And his wife a Gick of the Ballagick—

Down in Kirk Bride—you know them, what?

And a son and a daughter, that's the lot—

Saul the son, a name he got

From his grandfather on the mother's side—

Rather big people down in Kirk Bride.

But the daughter was Kitty—so, aisy then!

That's Kitty of the Sherragh Vane—

Kitty, Kitty—sure enough—

² Sail close to the wind : here = take care !

Nice-lookin, eh?

Aye, that's your way—

Well, I tell ye, the first time ever I seen her,

She wasn' much more till¹ a baby—

Six years, maybe,

Would have been her

Age; and the little clogs at her,²

Clitter-clatter,

And her little hand

In mine, to show me the way, you'll understand,

Down yandher brew,

And me a stranger too,

That was lost on the mountain;

And the little sowl in the house all alone,

And for her to be goin

The best part of a mile—

Bless the chile!

Till she got me right—

And not a bit shy, not her!

² Which she had.

Nor freckened,¹ but talkin away as purty ²
As a woman of thirty—
And—"That's the way down to the School," says she,
"And Saul and me
Is goin there every day;
You'll aisy find the way"—
And turns, and off like a bird on the wing,
Aw, a bright little thing!

Isn' it that way with these people of the mountain?
No accountin,
But seemin very fearless though—
Very—not for fightin no!
Nor tearin,³ but just the used⁴ they are
Of fogs and bogs, and all the war
Of winds and clouds, and ghos'es creepin
Unknownst upon them, and fairies cheepin

² Prettily.

³ Making rows.

⁴ Because they are accustomed to.

Like birds, you'd think, and big bugganes¹
In holes in rocks; lek makin frens²
With the like, that'll work like niggers, they will,
If you'll only let them; and paisible
Uncommon they are; and little scraps,
That's hardly off their mammies' laps
'll walk about there in the night
The same as the day, and all right—
Bless ye! ghos'es! ar'n' they half
Ghos'es themselves? Just hear them laugh,
Or hear them cry,
It's like up in the sky—
Aw, differin
Total³—aye; for the air is thin
And fine up there, and they sucks it in Very strong,
Very long,
And mixes it with the mould
Of all their body and all their sowl—

So they're often seemin
Like people dreamin,
And their eyes open like a surt of a trance,
You know, like Balaam, that had plenty of sance,¹
And knew the will of the Lord, and could spake it clever,
But wolloped his dunkey—but—however—
And come from the mountains too did Balaam,
And freckened, it's lek, the angel would whale him,
And gave in like winkin—
Rather a rum surt of prophet, I'm thinkin—
Aye—but these mountain people—well—
That's the surt—like Balaam ? no !
Like Balaam ! what are ye comin to ?
But the gel——

All right ! all right ! I never seen her
For years, no, not till she'd grew
A splendid craythur, keener,

Sense.

You'd see, and bouldher, and bigger,
But few
That had such a figure,
Such a face, such a look, right at ye—
Drat ye!
Take it or lave it!
She gave it
From the arch of her eyes
Like a bow, and the fringes
Treminjis—
And—her nose, you'd suppose?
Never mind her nose!
But black hair—
There!
And Saul's sister; and Saul and me
Was mates at sea,
Aboord the Mermaid, Captain Lear,
And axed me theer,
Whenever we'd be home,
For me for to come

From the Lhen,
And see them up at the Sherragh Vane.

Oulder ? me?

Sartinly.

Summer-time—so up I goes,

And goodness knows

The fun I had—

With Kitty ? Well, no, my lad—

No, no ! that wasn' her way,

Rather silent, as you may say,

Silent and thoughtful, and kept you off—

Nothin soft

About Kitty, nothin for ye to make bould of,¹

Nothin that a chap could get hould of—

Stiffish rather,

And me that might ha' been her father—

Chut ! ger out !²

What are ye both'rin about ?

² Tut ! get out !

Eye to eye
Like sea to sky,
Like sun to moon,
That's the tune—
Stared it into ye,
Dared it into ye,
Shoved you back—
Aw, it's a fack¹—
The eye, of coorse—
My gough! the foorce!²
Till you'd had enough—
Splendid stuff
Is eyes like that—
What?
Like a pushy cow?
Well, now,
That's just lek ye—I'm list'nin to it—
But stow it! stow it!

No, ye wudn'.

Yes, ye wud? ah, ye didn' know Saul,

It's lek, at all?

Aye—Saul, the brother that was at her?¹

Jealous? jealous? well, no matter!

Not Kitty—no, no! but gels about,

Of coorse, and plenty of them, stout

And hearty and free, bless ye! turf-cuttin sayson—

That's the rayson—

And rushes too; and the farmers comin in carts

From all parts—

And the sarvant gels—

Who else?

And Joan and John,

And coortin and carryin on—

And pies and priddhas² and cakes and broth,

The best on the No'th,³

¹ Whom she had.

² Potatoes.

³ On the North side of the Island.

Up theer,

Like a feer¹—

Or what is it the quality is callin it, Mick?

Pick-nick!

Just so,

And plenty of it though.

Now a little north of the farm there's a dip,

And some rocks, and a strip

Of plantin ither² side,

And not very wide;

And a sthrame that can just pass

Through the long grass,

Slishin—just a slock³—

You know the thing when a lump of a block

Houlds up the soil, till it'll spread

In a bit of a bed,

Or a lap, and then—

Steeper till⁴ ever down the glen.

² Either.

Dip.

Than.

And in the slock there's ling
And everything—
Shut in—that's it,
Every bit,
Except a slit
To the aesthard¹—and all these rocks and trees around him—
There's where she found him.

Found who ?

Says you—
Don't ate
Your mate
So fast, Hal Rat,² wait, wait !
Don't be stretchin your neck like a gandhar.
Well, for a good many days,
If ye plaise,
We noticed she was over yandhar,
Not once,

¹ Eastward.

² Henry Radcliffe.

Nor twice, but every chance.

As for goin to the turf—hullo !

One day she wouldn' go.

She was sick, she said,

Pains in her head,

Or the lek;¹ and when we come home

In the everin—the Pope was in Rome !

But Kitty was nowhere ; the cows

Was milked, and everything in the house

As comfible, and supper, ye know,

And spoons and basons all in a row—

But Kitty ?

Well, I went to bed.

But Saul was watchin, and, nothin said,

But watchful, jealous, suspicious lek—

That was Saul—he'd ha' twisted the neck

Of a chap that dared to look at the gel,

The fond of her you couldn' tell ;

And still that sharp with her, and that glum,
And boosely¹—it's rum,
Rum enough the way with such—
Lovin so much,
And for all the lovin, the way they're traitin
The ones they're lovin, it's more like hatin.
Couldn' spake, couldn' Kitty, wuss or better,
But there he was growlin and grumblin at her.

And that's the way,² I'm fancyin,
She tuk to be³ silent, but never gave in—
Kept her own notions, that's what she done,⁴
Her own notions, that was allis⁵ right,
Right, and clear as the sun—
A light
Of truth that was in the craythur, eh?
Truth—not hard, not hard; the day
Is truth—the night

¹ Beastly=surly. ² The reason why. ³ Took to being.

⁴ Did.

⁵ Always.

Is nothin : she hadn' no need to hide
A mortal thing ; and so this Saul
He hadn' no call.
But that's what made her silent—pride?
No, not pride ; she was just the same
Sweet innocent thing, that hadn' no shame
And hadn' no fear,
That everin many a year
Before, when she put her hand in mine,
And led me down the field : it's desthry'n¹
All pluck and spirit
In many a soul,
That 'spicion and dirt—
No scope² with the rowl
Of the long dead sea.
Out with your cable, and ride her free
Don't look to be wantin every motion,
And every notion
To be comin from you.

Is she good? is she true—
Blood and bone?
Then d—— it, lave her alone!

What was I say'n?
Aye, Saul, this chap, it wasn' cru'l
He was, and he wasn' no fool—
Rather hard to explain—
But expecting lek quite nath'ral, ye know,
That him and the sishthar'd allis go
Like two clocks, tick—tick;
Lek if he'd be sick, she'd be sick,
And if he'd be well, she'd be well,
And if he'd go a-sneezin, she's go a-sneezin,
For no other reason,
Or coughin—or, it's hard to tell,
There's people that's demandin¹—what?
And terbil loving for all that.
And still, to be out

So late, no doubt,
It wasn' surprisin, perhaps, my men,
That the brother'd¹
Be bothered,
And wond'rin what was in.²
So watch! watch!
And the door on the latch,
And—fire and slaughter!
Caught her!

What was betwix them he didn' tell me,
But wouldn' take rest
Of the thing, but on it and on it,
North and south, east and west,
Boxin the compass of doubt in his brain.
You've heard of a chap with a bee in his bonnet?
Well, Saul had a wasp in

² Going on.

³ He was so fierce.

At a saucepan

But the lid must be took Off at them straight¹—just curious.

But that wasn' Saul—Saul was furious ;

Must know !

Just so.

Must !

And be cussed

To the lot !²

Very hot.

Allis

Jallis,

That was it—

Every spit.³

Next day was Sunday, and he was up very early,
And watched her through the oats, and watched her through the barley—

¹ Immediately.

² Curse them all !

³ Every bit = exactly.

Watched her there,
And saw when she was slantin¹
Over to this plantin
I was tellin you, in the holler
Of the slock, you remember; and didn' foller
At all, not him, but back
To his breakfast, but marked the track,
And knew he harrer,²
Whatever there was arrer.³

And Kitty come into the house,
Like from the cows,
Or the lek, and then—
“Look here,” says Saul,
“I don't know the when
I've been over at the gill,
Or whatever ye call
That slock,” he says.

² Had her.

³ At her = whatever she was after.

“Come, Tom, let’s ques’¹

With the dog over yandher, aye;

Come along!” Well, never say die.

Over we went

Immadiant.

“Come on!” says he,

Very free.

And him with a gun, and a belt round his waist,

And a marlinspike in it, and—“Make haste! make haste!”

And his brass buttons, and his white ducks—

Aw, reglar bucks,

The two of us—

Him fuss.

Ye see,

That’s the man,

Spick and span,

Every spar;

And me

To bring up the r'ar.¹

That's the way, but little I knew
There was another beside, that flew
Like a pewhit there from rock to rock,
Keepin an eye on him, takin stock
Of all our actin, like a pewhit 'll do,
When she's freckened² that somebody's goin to discover

Her nest, you know them—pewhit, or plover,
All as one,³ and wheelin and wheelin,
And squealin and squealin,
Like a pessin⁴—
Disthressin !

It was Kitty that kept us in view,
Slippin along, with a stop, and a rush
From bush to bush,

² Afraid.

³ All the same.

⁴ Person = human being.

From stone to stone—

But sound there was none

From Kitty, like pewhits, for pewhits is vi'lent

Rather, but her quite silent—

Silent—and then we come upon him

Quite sudden, lyin in the middle of the firs,

And a quilt and a blanket on him—

Hers—

From her own bed—yis, yis !¹

And his head

As claver²

On a pillow, ye wouldn' belave, and a shawl

About his neck. “Well, this

Beats all

The cockfightin I aver !”³

Says Saul.

And—“Hullo !” he says, “hullo ! hurroo !

Who are you ?

² Clever—nicely placed.

³ Ever.

Where do you hail from, and what do ye mane¹
A-trespassin here on the Sherragh Vane?"

And then a jabber,

Slibber-slabber,

From the craythur—I couldn' tell what,

This or that—

And his throat all gritty.

And then Kitty—

Kitty lek swoops²

From the top o' the rock, and scoops

Some water in her hand,

And stoops,

And gives it to the man.

The man? Yes, man,—why, what did ye think?

A monkey? ye donkey—

A man, and got him to drink;

And then he spoke,

But it wasn' no joke

¹ Mean.

² Swoops, as it were.

That lingo,
To understand it, by Jingo!
Understand it we cudn',¹
Or wouldn'. "I 'spec²
It's the dialec',"
Says Kitty, "and I'll spake for him."
"Jean myghin orrim!"³
Says Saul,—“You've larnt very quick.’

So then she began,—
And me standin starin at the man
With all my eyes,—
And a dacent size
This chap;
But a rap
Of his lingo!—but aw! poor soul!
He looked like death, and no wonder, the cowl⁴
And the damp,

² Expect.

³ Manx=Lord, have mercy upon us!

⁴ Cold.

For all she was feedin him reggilar,
Like a baby there—
Like a baby, and as thin as a lat',¹
For, to spake of his body, and that,
He was worse than a tramp—
And a tramp, when he's done,
Is a terbil thing for to look upon
(My gough!² the lean!)—
And his face all grey, and grizzled, and green,
And nearly all eyes—and the eyes all glassy,
And glazin lek, and, Lord, ha' massy!³
His jaw was all drabbin,
And slabbin,⁴
Like a man's that's just died,
Afore it's tied
Up with a string,
Or the lek—d'ye see the thing?
And, by gough! I'll swear

The half of him was hair—
There !

Wantin washin terbil—yis !

'Deed¹ it wouldn' ha' been amiss,
If, besides bringin his victuals to 'm,
She'd tuk some soap, and a brush and comb,
And titivated him a little—but darn',²
And 'd thought o' the barn,
But no use—

Stuck to the Slock like the very deuce,
Bein freckened, you know, for all the kind,³
And hardly in his right mind,
With the ⁴ starved and the hunted—
And a surt of ⁵ grunted
Somethin about his freedom, his freedom !
Aye,—so all she cud do was to feed him,
And keep him alive, and just a bit warm,

⁴ With being so.

⁵ Somehow.

Till such times as this divil could be persuaded
To come to the farm ;
And no harm,
Nor no danger,
Would happen him there, no matter¹ the stranger ;
Though it must be conceded
He was a despard subjec'²—
I mane—objec'.

And she'd tried him hard, and *Would he go
Over to the farm ?* and "No, no, no!"
That was all she could get—
And "Let me tell them,"—and him to³ fret
And carry on, till she had to drop it.
Well, a poppet
He wasn', nor yet a dandy—what?
But the whole of that
She didn' tell us
Just then—no, no ! and jealous, jealous—

¹ Although he was a. ² Subject. ³ And then he began to.

Saul? aye, Saul—

“This won’t do at all,”

He said. “Why didn’ ye spake to me

First thing?” he said. “What’s this sacresy,

This humbuggin and hidin,

This sliddin and slidin,

This pin-pannin ¹

This musco-dannin ?

Who is the fellow?

D—— him yellow

And green and blue !

Has he tould you ?

What ?

That !

¹ = Unintelligible proceedings. In counting for the tipper at the game of tip or tag, the Manx children chant the following doggerel :

“Wonnery, twoery, dickery, davy,
Hollabo, crackabo, tennery, lavy.
Pin-pan,
Muscodan,
Humblin bumblin, twenty-one.”

Who is he? what is he? You know, I guess,— We'll have no saycrets here," he says,—
"Chapter and vess;¹—
Out with it! out with it!
I'll have no doubt with it."

"It is a saycret," then says she,
"And he's trusted it to me,
And I've promised I'll tell it to nobody.
It's his saycret, not mine."
"Very fine! very fine!—
Promised?" says Saul—
"And d—— it all!
(And blast and blow!)
And a nice craythur to be promised to!"
And—"He couldn't force ye—could he? chat!²
A hurdy-gurdy rubbish like that"—
Dyin too! and promised she had!
*Jallis?*³ mad!

Aw, holy Paul!

That was Saul.

But Kitty didn' answer a word,

Only you could aisy see

The sthrong she was in her honesty—

In her conscience—stirred, yis, stirred,

And vexed lek enough; but the pure sweet blood

That was in her—stir her the wuss¹ ye could,²

And that's the best—

Never no dhrop of bitterness

In yandher gel. So—"Come!" says I,

"We'll have him over to the house, and try

What can we do to clane him a bit,

And see if he's fit

To live with Christian people," I said,

"Or some haythan naygur forrin-bred,

And nathral dirty—and his hair lookin frizzy,"

I said; "and ye can't tell well what is he,

² However much you stirred her.

Black, or white, or yellow, or green, or blue,
Till he's washed, and a good wash too."

"Yes," I says. "All right!" says Saul, and heaves
the gun on his shouldher,

Like a souldjher.

Him fuss, then the chap, then me—and away we swings,

And Kitty all around him just like wings—

Stoopin, cownin, wrappin, shelterin him,

That was that wake he could hardly stir a limb—

Aye, and studdyin¹ him, and houldin him by the arm—

Bless ye! and all the way to the farm,

Yes, from the very minute we come upon him over there,

Who was he lookin at? at me? at Saul Tear,

Exqueer,²

That was shoutin at him like a bull of Bas'n?

¹ Steadying.

Was it? no, it wasn'!

It was Kitty he was lookin at—lookin! what's lookin? good lord!

Devourin, worshippin 's more the word.

Like drew to her, like gript to her with graplins—

This craythur—couldn' take his eye off her—

Not him, like takin his live or die off her.¹

And so on through the saplins,

And the field, and the hedge, till we come on the street,

And his feet goin strooghin² greatly,

And beat complately,

And his poor body all curled in a hump,

And—"D'ye' see yandher pump,"

Says Saul,

"Against the wall?

Sthrip!" he says, "and wash!" he says,

¹ Depending upon her for life or death.

² Stroking = trailing.

“From head to foot,” and heaves him a lump
Of soap—

And Kitty to jump
Like an antelope,
And in on the door—
Well, to be sure !

But the craythur hadn’ the strength of a clout ;
So—“Get under the spout !”
Says Saul, “and never mind for your rags—I’ll pump,” and pumped till the divil fell flat on the flags.

Then out come Nicky-Nick-Nick,
The father ? yes, and as quick as quick—
Aw, a hearty ould chap !
Stap !” he says, and lifts the sowl²
Like a shot ; and—“Is it washin ?” and—“Bring us a bowl ;

¹ Stop.

² Poor soul.

I'll wash him," he says, and turns to
Like a woman with a baby,—and "Ho, ho!"
And "Ha, ha!" and "He, he!"
Such a spree!"
Says Nicky; and tervil comfortin
To the craythur, no doubt; and—"See the skin!"

He says—"Look here—the white!
All right! all right!
He's comin to! this chap 'll do—
Hurroo! hurroo!"
And rubs and rubs,
And scrubs and scrubs,
Like Waterloo.

"Now then, we're done,"
He says, "my son!
And I declare
It's a reg'lar beauty you are!
First-rate! first-rate!"

But—mate ! mate ! ” ¹

He roors—

“ Come indoors !

Mate ! mate ! where’s the women ? ”

And his heart was brimmin

With the joy and the fun, and “ Hie-cockalorum ! ”

And shovin this poor thing before him,

That was trimblin very much,

And made a clutch

To see could he keep his trowsis ² on,

And all but gone—

Aw dear !

But Mistriss Tear

Met them theer ;

And says she, “ What’s this,

Nicholas ? ”

She says—

“ Is it dacency ? ”

¹ Meat

² Trousers.

Says she ;

And surely he might have ast¹ her !

But he made a run, and got past her,

And had the chap on the settle

Close to the big kettle

Afore she could wink ;

And him to sink

All of a heap there,

Lek goin to sleep there,

Or faintin or somethin—and Nicky to go

And catch the wife around the wais',

And looks up in her face—

The little monkey—just so—

And smiled and smiled, till she could hardly chose

But smile herself, and slacked the screws

Of her mouth a bit ; and then he kissed her,

At laste, missed her,

But done his best, bein small,

And her tall.

¹ Asked.

And then she said, "No foolishness!"
But—"Let the craythur stay," she says.

Aw, the joy of Nicky! and caught a gel,¹
And spun her round till she nearly fell;
But the mistriss frowned—but Nicky looked middlin
'Larmed;² and Kitty with the cups and saucers
fiddlin,
And tay for this chap, bein understood
The best for him, lek³ it wouldn' be good—
Lek nothing more substantialler
Wouldn' do for the like—aw, they wouldn' dar:⁴
And Kitty fed him, houldin the cup
Agin⁵ his mouth for him to sup,
And moppin the drabs⁶ with a towel at⁷ her;
And he tried to spake, but—chitter-chatter!
The teeth and the tongue, and nothin clear.

⁴ Dare. ⁵ Against. ⁶ Droppings. ⁷ Having a towel.

So when he was fed, we studded¹ him theer
Upon his feet ;
And out on the sthreet,²
And up on the laff³
Over the stable, and a tickin⁴ of chaff,
And blankets and piller—
Bless ye ! couldn' ha' been comfibilier.

And Nicky head man, and would hardly lave him,
Rejicin, ye know, and Kitty gave him
Her hand to hould for a little bit,
The same's a baby 'll⁵ hould his mammy's.
But Saul began with his "blow me's," and "d——

And so we quit ;
And just on the step
Goin in says Saul to his mother,
"There 'll be bother

⁵ Will.

About that chap !”

That was all ! that was all !

Just like Saul ! just like Saul !

“ But how about the dialogue—

Dialec' is it ? lek a pessin ¹ in grog ”—

Says Nicky then—

“ Lizzen, ² men !

Wawky, wawk ! ³

Squawky, squawk,

Caw, caw,

Craw, craw—

For all the world like a jackdaw—

And Kitty's understandin him, eh ?

Kitty, Kitty, what does he say ?

Here's Saul declarin you can tarprit ⁴ him clever :

Tarprit, tarprit, Kitty ! whoever !” ⁵

¹ Person.

² Listen.

³ Onomatopoetic attempts to imitate the “dialec'.”

⁴ Interpret.

⁵ Expletive of delight : g.d., “ Who ever saw such fun ?”

Aw, Christopher !¹

Not a word from Kitty, not her.

And the ould chap prittin and pratin

And imitatin,

Fit for to frecken² the crows.

So, I suppose,

That's the raison ould Nicky was plannin

For me to spake to him—

Me that was understannin

Most lingoos, of coorse, and seemin to take to him

Kind rather—aw, Nicky thought of it

All night, I tell ye, and the how and the what of it,

And nudgin the misthriss that she couldn' get a wink—

And think and think and think and think.

And—"Tom Baynes," he says, "Tom Baynes will do't"—

"Aisy, ye brute !"

Says Mistriss Tear—

Wasn' he tellin us theer?

Aw, a rum ould boy,

If ever there was, and bound to try ;

And up very early, and called me to come,

And "have it out with this fee-fo-fum."

But the poor thing was asleep when we come on the laff,¹

Dead beat,

That's it.

So we waited a bit—

And ould Nicky whisp'r'in agate of² his chaff,

But wonderin

Astonishin—

"Do ye think he's a Turk?" says Nicky to me,

"Or a Jew? or some surt of a Feejee—

Or a Moabite,

, Or a Perizzite—

² Intent upon.

Look here!" he says,

"Chapthar and vess!"¹

"He's a Welshman," says Nick—

"A Welshman! a Welshman! that's the stick!

You're done, Tom, you're done!" he says—

. . . "How's this

It's goin' aw, Tom, crid nish!"²

You'll never make out his gibberish—

Welsh, for a shillin!" Then he woke,

And looked about him, and then I spoke.

"How are ye this mornin?" says I; says he—

"Wawk, wawk,"³

Squawk, squawk,

Gimmell, gammell,

Wimmell, wammell"—

Couldn' make out a word, I'll swear⁴—

¹ I can give you chapter and verse for it—I am certain.

² What, or how now?

³ The "dialec'" very imperfectly represented.

⁴ Swear.

"Welsh, for a shillin!" says Nicky Tear;

'Welsh, for a shillin!" Then I tried him in French—

"Howee dooee dissee mawnin?"

But there wasn' no sign; when in comes this wench,

Kitty, you know, like a rose of the dawnin—

Aw, 'deed¹ she was; and—"Spake to him, Kitty!"

Says the father—

"Mumbo-jumbo! smitty-witty!

Is that it, eh? Tom is failin rather—

He knows a dale, but he don't know enough—

And sailors, you know, is very rough."

I was middlin mad;² but Kitty stooped

Over the piller, and the craythur scooped³

His eyes in scollops—you never saw—

² Rather angry.

³ Opened his eyes until they looked as big and as round as the shell-fish called the scollop.

And the two of them they worked the jaw
Like the mischief. English? English, no doubt,
But English turnin inside out—
My gough! the English! “What is he sayin?”
Says Nicky. “What, what, what, what? spake plain!”
Aw, you couldn’ hould him!¹
“Spake plain now! tarprit!”² So she tould him,
But still I suspect
She only tould him what she lekt.³
Why, here was these two
With their parlee-voo;
And no thanks to you,
And no thanks to me,
They could talk to all eternity—
And nobody knowin what they were talkin—
Aw, it was shockin!

¹ You could not restrain his impetuosity.

² Interpret.

³ Liked.

But Nicky didn' care a scrap,
He tuk a notion to the chap—
Aw, bless ye ! he was just the sort,
And not heedin for't¹
But Kitty was tellin him every word—
Good Lord !
“It's a dialec’,” says Nicky theer,
“A dialec’,” says Nicholas Tear—
“A dialec’—of coorse they will—²
These dialec's is terrible.”
And rejicin. And Saul, and the mother—eh ?
Well, of coorse, Saul
Was off to say,³
And me too ; so that's all
You'll get this haul.

¹ Not observing but that. ² People will talk in dialects.

³ Sea.

SECOND PART.

JUST two years after, being home again,
I went to see them at the Sherragh Vane.
But Saul was away, when I got there fuss,¹
Bein second mate of the Arquebus
That vi'ge,² and me aboard of the Hound,
Captain Forster, China bound—
Long vi'ges them days, despard,³ aye !
But home at last, and up for a try
At the harvest theer, and a moonlight night,
And met ould Nicky, that was all right,
And as hearty as ever. And—"See yandher barley !"
And see this, and see that ; and "Agate of it"⁴ early
"To-morrow," he says. And up through the goss,⁵

¹ First.

² Voyage.

³ Desperately.

⁴ We shall be going at it.

⁵ Gorse.

And up the gill—the delighted he was
And the hot, and his head goin bibbin and bobbin,
And a chirpin there little an' ould cock-robin.

“And how is yandher card?”

Says I; “is he here with you still?” “Hould hard!

Aisy! aisy!” says Nicky Tear—

And, lo and behold! the two of them theer

Quite close, and walkin very slow

On the top of the rocks; and the moon like snow

Upon her head and upon her neck,

And no bonnet nor nothin, and never a speck

Of cloud nowhere, and her face turned full

To the moon that was risin over Barrule—

And the look—by gum! love's brew's a-brew'n

When a gel looks like that in the harvest moon—

Special¹ coortin—and coortin it was—

That's what I said to Nicholas.

“Them two is coortin!” I said. “They’ve got My leave,” says he. “Why not? why not?
Why not?” says Nicky. And then he tould
All about it—aw, a hearty ould sowl!
And this chap he was callin him Ned—d’ye see?
Ned—and shuited him to a tee,—
Ned—nothin else—he wouldn’ tell them
What else was he callin; but, all the same,
A fuss-rate sarvant, ’deed for sure!¹
And the way he larned, and clever thallure!²
And a grand head arrim;³ and the strong he’d got—
Aw, bless ye! shuited him to a dot—
And ploughin and sowin, and buyin and sellin,
And cypherin theer, there wasn’ no tellin
The useful; and handy with cattle and sheep,
And all about breedin,
And “shockin⁴ for readin;
And costin me nothin but his keep,”

³ At him = belonging to him. ⁴ Excellent.

Says Nick; and the clanest chap and the nicest,
And civil; and knowin all about prices;
“And studdy¹ uncommon, uncommon!” says Nick.

“And how about the dialec’?”

Says I. “Aw, bless your mammy then!

He’s talkin just like other men

Now,” says Nick; “but still they can slant

Into that, you know, whenever they want—

Them two—aw, yes! remindin me—

My gough!” says Nicky, “look here! the spree!”

He says, and he laughed; and then he stopped

Quite sudden, you know, lek freckened,² and dropped

His merry ould vice. And says he, “Aw dear!

The happy if it wasn’ for Mrs. Tear—

The happy!” “And is she agin³ it?” I said.

² As if frightened.

³ Against.

And then he tould me all the jeel¹
 And the work there'd been—Like steel ! like steel !
 He said, she was—the sharp and the hard,
*And the keen and the could*²—*but he didn' regard ;*³
And he'd have his way ; and he shook the fiss,⁴
 And he stamped the foot. “Never mind,” he says.

And then he saw these two was turned
 To meet us ; and then this Nicky yearned
 To the happiness ; and all his trouble
 Was gone like a whiff of smook, like a bubble,
 That busts in the air, and—“See, see, see !
 Machree !⁵ machree !
 See the beautiful ! the grand !
 Hand in hand—
 Aw, ye darlins !” he says, “it's splandid—
 Coort on ! coort on !”
 And he thrimbled, the man did,—

¹ Trouble.

² Cold.

³ Care.

⁴ Fist.

⁵ “My heart !”—a term of endearment.

Thrimbled—and then he splains¹
Who had he with him ; and “ Thomas Baynes,”
He says, “ you’re knowin Thomas, it’s lek ;
He’s not forgot at² you, eh ? ”
And “ Hip-hip-hip ! hooraa ! ”

Did she start ? did she blush ? did she turn away ?
Not her !
Like a fir,
Straight,
Strong—
Was she right,
Was she wrong,
Not a notion ;³
But a motion
Of her head—
Aw, a queen
She might ha’ been—
And her hand held out as free.

¹ Explains. ² By. ³ She had no notion = she never thought.

And "Welcome home!"

And, turnin to 'm,

"This is Ned,"

Says she.

And Nicky was right; aw, a handsome falla!

He'd got rid of the black and the green and the yalla;

And he stood like a man—

"Ned what?" I began.

But the finger to her lip,

And the father took a grip

On my arm middlin tight,

And says I, "All right!"

And on and passed them; and says Nicky to me,

"There's nobody knowin the name," says he,

"Except herself, that's tould,¹ no doubt;

But tell a livin sowl? gerr out!²

Tell me! No, no! she's not such a fool:

¹ Who has been told.

² Get out! = certainly not!

I couldn' keep it for silver nor gool—
It isn' in me—saycrets—chut!¹
Let them that likes them keep them—but—
Aye, aye! the mother—aw, never fail!

And—a craythur like yandher,
And not even a name to his tail—
And the goose and the gandher
I was, and the low and demaynin—
Aye, and the wicked and sinful—and would I be deignin
To take such a thing for my son-in-law? dirt! just dirt!
From the road, she said; and the hurt! the hurt
Her friends would be, she was sayin, the Gicks, aye
the Gicks—
The Gicks of Kirk Bride! the hurt, the insulted; six,
She said, six daughters, all married on² farmers,
the fuss³

*Of the country, she said, "but her—aw dear ! aw dear !
The wife of Nicholas Tear—*

And her heart would buss.¹

And what would the daughter be callin ? what ?

Mrs. Neddy—eh ? aye, Neddies enough for the matter of that—

And well if people 'd keep to their station—

And Neddies and dunkeys and dirt²s and desperation ! "

That's the way Nicky tould me—dreadful bother !

But, some way or another,

She'd got very quite³ of late—

Very, he said ; and we come to the gate—

And—"Kitty has got some life⁴

Now," he says ; "and a splandid wife

She'll make," says Nicky ; and—doubts ? no, he heddin !⁵

¹ Burst.

² Dirty=contemptible creatures.

³ Quiet.

Ease or comfort.

⁵ Had not.

And—"We'll have the weddin Directly," he says—yes, blow 'm !
Directly Saul comes home—

Directly—

"Saul ! Saul !" thinks I ;

"Is it Saul ? Well, never say die !"

So in I goes ; and the misthriss gracious thallure,¹
But silent, terbil silent, to be sure !
And her mouth like a vice, like a rivet,
Like houldin on,
Like waitin—look out, my son !
That's the surt 'll give it—
All or none !

And that night, when the gel come in,
Astonishin

The nice this Neddie was, and the careful too—
Not a bill or a coo

Urrov¹ him once, and Kitty as quite² as quite,
And readin, and not much of a light,
Some surt of a track,³
I doubt, and threw her head back,
And looked like she'd look into heaven; and me
That tould them of Saul, and how long he would be;

And the mother's eye—just a snip, just a snap,
Just a—bless your sowl! and the dhrap⁴
Of the thread on her lap—
Aw, aisy enough to see! aw, bless the woman!
Skaddhin⁵ or skate—
Wait, then, wait!
Saul was comin.

And Saul came—
Fire and flame!
No name?

² Quiet.

³ Tract.

⁴ Dropping.

⁵ Herring or skate=no matter what.

*This chap, and coortin Kitty Tear,
Carryin everything before him theer,
Cock of the walk?
By the Lord, he'd balk
The beggar, he said;
He'd know his name, and how he was born, and how he was bred—
Nice tricks!
But he'd have to pack from the Sherragh Vane
In quick sticks.
And—"You're my friend,
Tom Baynes," he says. "All right!
And we'll have it out with him this very night."*

So I didn' let on¹ what Nicky had said—
What was the use?
And sure enough, when we went to bed
In the garret,
He went arrit²

¹ Betray.

² At it.

Like the deuce—

Aw, the whole bilin !

By gough ! I saw the mother smilin

When he kissed her ;

And the smile was half a smile and half a blister.

But any way she had her desire,

And the fat was in the fire—

Up in that garret—goodness ! the row !

And where, and how,

And when, and who ?

And the ould gentleman's own hollabaloo !

Questions ! questions ! aw, the brewer's big pan ¹ o' them,

And never waitin for an answer to one o' them.

And—"What's your name?" he said,

And struck the bed

"We'll hunt the wren").

Terbil vicious.

"I'll tell you what it is, I'm suspicious

You're one of these runagate scamps

That tramps

The counthry, and's come to some grief

With the police," says Paul; "a thief,

A thief," he says, "that's what ye are;

A thief, I'll swar.¹

And the likes o' you don' dar²

Have a name;

And so you came

To the Isle of Man."

Bless me! how the tongue of him ran!

But this chap was patient though, and the quite³

ye never seen,⁴

Quite⁵ uncommon; for it's mad enough he must ha' been

¹ Swear.

² Don't dare.

³ Quiet.

⁴ You never saw such quietness.

⁵ Quiet.

To bear such abuse.

“Hurroose ! hurroose !”

Says I ;

“Stand by !

Hould hard,

Saul !” I says, “I don’t regard¹

For vagabones,” I says, “no more till² you—no, not a rap ;

But still this chap is seemin a dacent chap ;

And he’s worked faithful on the farm, and you’ve heard the old man praisin

This Ned, for the honest and the skilful ; and no doubt there’s a rayson

Why he can’t be tellin his name, no doubt ;

And the truth ’ll come out

Some day,” I says, “and there’ll be no disgrace in,

Not a bit of it,” I says ; “just hidlins⁴ lek,

⁴ Hiding = any outlaw, fugitive from justice, or even retire from the world only is said to be “in hidlins.”

Hidlins—the way¹ there's plenty, I expec'—
Aye, plenty, and honest chaps enough, and can't help it."

Aw, he reg'lar yelpit,²
Did Saul; and me to be takin his part!
And the two of us would start
The very next morning—aye, start! he said—
"Not me," says Ned;
"I'm your father's servant, and not yours."
And he shouts and he roors,
This Saul, like all the bulls of Bashan—
"Then what's your name, and what's your nation?
And what the this and the that are ye manin?
Is there to be no complainin,
But just for you and Kitty to go
And get spliced? and no more about it?"
And God d—— him! did he know

¹ As.

² Yelped.

There must be a stiffcate,¹ and a license, and how'd he get them

Without a name?

*Idikkiliss!*²

Hit or miss,

He'd have an end of this—

*Yis!*³

"You dirt," he said, "you common scrub!

You beggar's cub!

You'll be slopin from here, that's what you'll be do'n,

And precious soon."

Then says Ned, very patient, but his eyes all afame—

"What would hinder me to take a name,

A false name? d'ye hear?

And marry your sister, Saul Tear,

In that name? What would hinder me, eh?

¹ Certificate.

² Ridiculous.

³ Yes.

To do that, if I'm all the villains you say?"

"False name, false marriage—sartinly!

What'd hinder him? what'd hinder him?" says I.

What'd hinder?

Steel and tinder!

Tyre and Sidon!

Saul was blazin!

Foamin! "The raison!

The raison," he says,

"Your name's goin a-hidin?"¹

"That's my business," says Ned, quite firm.

"So it is," says I; for he wasn' no worm,

I seen, this Ned, nor no weasle, nor no funk,

But tuk his part like a lad of spunk,

But patient—cool—not a mossil² flarried³—

¹ =is a-hiding: going is superfluous, but almost universally used in such constructions.

² Morsel, bit.

³ Flurried.

So I backed him, I did—"We don't mean to be married,"

Says Ned, "all the same,

Till I can claim

My own name,

And hould up my head

In the sight of God and man," says Ned.

"And no more you will," says I,

"And never say die!

And fair field and no favour!

And braver! braver!"¹

Saul was chokin;

And no more was spoken

That night. And, bless ye! next day,

When we'd supped our porridge, and a taste of tay

At ² the women—aye—and out on ³ the work,

² Had been taken by.

³ When we were just going out to.

This ould Turk,
This Nicky Tear,
Up with him theer,
And what d'ye think?
In a clap, in a twink,
Makes the two of them stand
Right out on the floor—
Aye, to be sure !
Ned and Kitty, and hand in hand—
Made them take hands,
And there they stands.

And then says Nicky—"Take witness," he says,
"Thomas Baynes, and all the rest,
Friends lek in general,—take witness," says he,
"These two is engaged to be married, and married they'll be,"
And gave a nod—
"Married they'll be, so help me God !"
He said it as sharp as a knife ;

But his face bust a ¹ smilin directly, and up's ² to the wife,

And kisses her theer,

All stiff in her cheer,³

That said nothin,

But turnin the tip of her ear,

Like a stone, like a slate—very tryin!

But Saul gev a leap like a lion—

I thought there'd been bother,

But stopped at a look from the mother.

So out to the shearin,⁴ the lot ⁵—

And a beautiful spot—

Very nice it's appearin,

Shearin,

That high,

Like reg'lar up in the sky—

And the chimley smookin

⁴ Reaping. ⁵ All of us.

Below, and all that blue and curled,
And just like lookin—
Lookin—lookin all over the world.
Very nice in them places ;
And whips off my braces—
Nicky's rig¹ though—Nicky and me,
For 'ciety²—
Would hev it !
And as right as a trevit³—
Nicky to shear, and me to bind—
But Saul stayed behind—
Aye, the best of an hour,
Did Saul ; and the misthress? well, she stayed too—
But—of coorse, of coorse !—a power⁴ to do
In a house like yandher.
Then Nicky tould
All the throuble of his sowl—

³ Trivet.

⁴ (She had) a great deal.

“How is it,” he said, “they’re doin it—
The women, eh? for they’ll sit and sit,
And sew and sew, and never let on,¹
But they’ll watch their chance, they’ll watch, my son,
And they’ll have ye, they’ll have ye! yis, the wife of your bosom!
Or should be—what? aw, the Lord knows ’m—
The Lord knows ’m, but I dōn’.²
Not a word, not the smallest taste of a groan—
But all on the look, on the feel, on the spring,
On the hair-trigger—that’s the thing.
Yis, even at night—aw dear! aw dear!
Like a barrel of powder in the bed with ye theer.”

“But you spoke very plain to her this mornin,”
Says I, “very bould, very plucky, like scornin
All oppogician,” I says. “Lay high!³

That's your road, Mr. Tear," says I—
"Stick to that—keep her at that—
Hould your luff¹—you'll beat her yet—
Yis, you will! You're a man with a sperrit;
Keep your eye on the thing, and you'll gerr it²—
You'll gerr it," I says. "But, Saul," says he,
"Didn' ye see?
He's against it too—
It'll never do.
Fit to ate³ me directly I spoke—
Ye seen him! hearts of oak—
Is it? iron'd⁴ be more lek⁵ it—
Stiff-neckit! stiff-neckit!
Allis kickin up a dust—
And didn' take to him from the fuss."⁶
And "Ye seen him, Saul?" and I noddod—
Machree!⁷

¹ Sail close to the wind.

² Get it.

³ He was ready to eat.

⁴ Iron would.

⁵ Like.

⁶ First.

⁷ "My heart!" Here used as an interjection of sorrow.

“The two of them! that’s too many for me.
Aw, yes it is—I can make a row,
And shout and defy—aw that I’ll allow—
Anything hearty, anything free—
Cussin, tearin ¹—that’s me! that’s me!
But saycrets—schaemin ²—plannin—rot me!
No, no! they’ve got me there! they’ve got me—
No chance at all—I don’t know how to fix them,
Not a hayporth; there’s somethin betwix’ them
This very minute, I know there is.”
“Have your way with them,” I says.
“Have your way with them; chut! ³ chut!
You’ll aisy do it.” “No, I’ll not,”
Says Nicky, and gettin rather hot—
In temper, I mean.

And “Look here!” he says,
“It’s ill-becomin to spake amiss
Of one’s own wife; but, if you’ll considher,

² Scheming.

³ Tut!

It isn' azackly¹ that ither²—
No, it isn'—it's difference lek
Of people—we're not the one speck,
Nor the one spot, nor the one hide³—
Me from the mountains, her from Kirk Bride.
Lek⁴ here the air is keen and quick,
And there the air is slow and thick.
And there the soil is heavy stuff,
And here the soil is only a scruff.
So there they're all for calkerlatin,
Schaemin, dodgin, workin the patin⁵—
Manure? aye—proud tremenjis,
Proud, man, proud, not willin of⁶ strenjis⁷—
Dailin with them—sartinly—
In business lek accordantly;⁸
But likin them? no! just jallus,⁹ jallus!

¹ Exactly.

² Either.

³ Speck, spot, and hide=metaphor from skins of animals as showing marks of difference.

⁴ For example.

⁵ Using patent manure.

⁶ Liking.

⁷ Strangers.

⁸ In accordance with their business as farmers.

⁹ Jealous.

No, I wouldn' call it malice—
But nothin friendly, nothin gennal¹—
And me—my gough! I'd like to spen' all
My life with the like, lek standin on a rock,
Lek crowin to them like a cock—
'Come up! come up! and how d'ye do to ye?
And cock-a-doodle-doodle-doo to ye!
I don't disregard ye, and I don't fear ye;
But I like to see ye, and I like to hear ye.'
Strange talk, of course, but pleasant to me—
'Ooze is this aoose?'² and fiddlededee—
Not comin often, nor never knowin
Who are they at all, just comin and goin
And³ steep, ye know, and a middlin pull,
And⁴ longin for them pitiful—
The talk and all that differing—
Do ye see the thing? do ye see the thing?
And Mrs. Tear—that's knowin a dale

¹ Genial. ² Whose is this house? [mimicking the English (Irish) accent]. ³ The way up to the farm is. ⁴ And I am.

About the lek ; and used of¹ a sale
Of stock ev'ry year—and reg'lar raps—
Aw, sartinly—these Whitehaven chaps²
At the Ballagick, and imprin³ amazin,
And thricks and lies ; so that's the raison—
Aw, sartinly. But lonesome here—
Lonesome enough. So Mrs. Tear
Has got her notions. But me—my gough !
If I'm only hearin one of them cough—
The change, eh?—and I don't know is it right,
But I'm over the hedge, and agate o' them⁴
straight.

Newance⁵—yis—but natheral,
Isn' it? But Saul—aye Saul,
Saul and the mother—suspicious, eh?
Suspicious lek a body might say⁶—
Suspicious, Mrs. Tear and Saul ;

⁴ Get into conversation with. ⁵ Novelty. ⁶ As one might say.

But me ! aw, bless ye ! not at all."

And Ned.

And then he tould me the splendid

He was, till I thought he'd never ended—

Fuss-rate, he said, the jography,

The this and that, and as free as free,

And cipherin lek, and good at the pen,

But tould me before, and where and when

And who—and still for all no harm—

Couldn' be beat on a mountain farm—

And got that 'cited that he swore and swore

It's Kitty he should have ; and the more

'Cited he got, the quicker he cut,

Till I hardly could bind for him—foot for foot,

Sheaf for sheaf, and a clip and a toss—

Aw, a 'citable ould chap he was !

But, just lavin off, says Nicky to me—

" We'll see," he says, " we'll see, we'll see !

Maybe two against two," he says ;

"There's no mistake about you," he says.

"All right ! all right !

We'll see to-night.

I'll have a talk with her, you'll be bound ¹—

Jinny Clague, from Kirk Marown—

Kitty's cousin," he says. "She's comin

To-night," he says ; "and I'm a rum 'n ²

If I don't get her to take my side—

They're terbil high, them ones at Kirk Bride.

Jinny, Jinny ! that's it !

Wait a bit !

You'll see, Thomas—I'll bet a cow !

But mind you'll be civil to her now—

Civil, civil——" "That's aisy done,"

Says I. "All right ! all right, my son !

All right ; but rather fond of Saul,

That'll be like a wall

Against me." "Never mind !" says I ;

² Rum one.

"We can only try.

Is she nice-lookin, Mr. Tear?"

"Wait till ye see her,"

Says Nicky; and gettin rather late—

"Aw well, I'll wait," I says, "I'll wait;

Waitin's no crime."

So Jinny come about supper time.

She was rather squinny,¹

Was Jinny—

Cross-eyed—just so—

And, whether or no,

Rather undersized,

Rather blackavised—

Aw, 'deed she was; but a bright little sthugger²

This Jenny—sharpish, wantin shugger,³

It's likely—aw, wantin shugger, no doubt—

But a reg'lar whiskin turn-about

Of a thing—like spinnin—like a tee-to-tum—

¹ Squinting.

² Thick-set person.

³ Sugar.

Finger and thumb—

Tick, tock,

Dickory-dock¹—

And the eye not so bad, like a keyhole rather—

But, the holy father!

The fire that came out of it—black, black, black —

Skutes² of fire.

Aw, a bright little tight little wobblers,³

And carried her own little box like a hobbler,⁴

And put it down on the floor. And then

At it the two of them went like sin—

At who? at what? Why, these two madarms—

Runnin in one another's arms—

It's a way they have, I don't know the why,

But they must, I suppose, and ye'll see them fly—

My gough, the fly! and looks like escapin,

¹ Some notion of symmetry and nattiness is conveyed by these words.

² Squirts, jets.

³ Brisk person.

⁴ Harbour-porter.

Like takin refuge from the men, that's gapin
As awkward theer, and never no notion¹
To touch them—what? But such a commotion!
Such a twitter! aw, never belave me!
And clings to each other like—"Save me! save me!"

Or is it—"Ah! ye dar'n'!² ye dar'n'!
Freckened³ of ye? no we ar'n'—
And how would ye like to be like this?"
And kiss, and kiss, and kiss, and kiss—
Idikkiliss!⁴
But bless them!

So there they sat and sat,
All twisted together like a plat,⁵
Till bed-time; and out and up to their room
Twisted still, like a surt of a bloom
Of a double flower,

¹ The men have no idea of touching them. ² Dare not.

³ Afraid.

⁴ Ridiculous.

⁵ Plait.

"In a bower,
After a shower"—
At laste, . . . I mean. . . .

But, bill and coo—
This went on for a day or two—
And then I noticed that Jinny,
Squinny
Or not,
Every shot
Of her eye
Knew well where to fly—
Straight
As the sun's own light—
Aw, the divil and all!
Never off Saul, never off Saul.

And then this little game began—
Here's the plan—
Saul lettin on¹

¹ Pretending.

He was gettin fond
Of Jinny, that never cared a rap for her,
Never a scrap for her ;
But what for ? You'll hear, you'll hear !
Never fear !
Two-and-two was the game to act—
Kitty and Ned on the one tack,
And Jinny and Saul—of coorse they went—
Aw, it wasn' much encouragement
Jinny wanted. Bless ye ! she gorras ¹
Happy as happy—all cares and sorras ²
Was off to Guinea ;
She didn' think of the when and the why—
Reg'lar up in heaven was Jinny—
Her and her eye !

But I shouldn' be makin fun
Of the poor sowl.
Once they're begun,

² Sorrows.

How can ye conthroul
These despard feelins? I don't know.
It's hard anyway, and very hard
For them that's squintin; for they don't regard
For nothin nor nobody, nor never thinkin—
They're that driven—
But works the eye away like winkin.
Of coorse, what else? Isn' it given
For that? It's out of the eye
That love lets fly
His arrows—lookkee!
And if they shoot crooky—
I raelly don't know—
It's the fault of the bow,
Maybe; but still,
Perhaps, when you shoots with a will,
With strength and might,
It'll straighten the flight.
Or, like enough, a dale depands
On the way they're tuk;¹ like candle ends,

¹ Taken.

They're better till nothin ; but I'd rather a lamp—
But light is light—
Lek makin believe they're all right—
The little scamp.
So bless the woman !

Her and Saul got on uncommon.
And the ould chap tried, aw, he tried hard,
In the house, in the yard,
In the field, everywhere—
Tried a surt of a coortin there—
A surt, but tervil ould-fashioned, ye know—
Ould-fashioned, ould-fashioned ! aw, a bit of a beau
In his time, no doubt, but differin
With young people. Aye, a chuck o' the chin ;
Slips his arm round her waist, whips her up on his knee ;
Sings tribble,¹ and rather makin free ;
Looks at Saul, looks at me, gives one of his winks,

¹ Treble.

And you never heard the compliminks !¹

But no good, not a bit, only apt to provoke
The misthriss to fancy ; but saw through the joke—
Did the misthriss—aye, and knew very well
What was he afthar, and aisy to tell.
So the misthriss took all as pleasant as pleasant,
Only like thinkin it right to be present ;
Aw, yis,²—just the way lek³ she'd studied the plan⁴
Of a sensible wife with a foolish ould man,
And young gels about.

Just so,
And we'd all of us go
Of an ev'rin⁵ and sit on the settle
In the little bit of a garden they had,
Each lass with her lad ;
And the poor ould dad

¹ You never heard such compliments. ² Yes. ³ Just as if.

⁴ The best way for a wife to deal. ⁵ Evening.

Lek stung with a nettle,
That he couldn' keep quite¹—
Like a chap that was tight—
And gettin up a laugh,
And a bit of chaff,
And as well in his bed;
And nobody mindin what was it he said,
Except me, for I pitied the poor ould file;
And maybe the mistriss 'd give a smile.

But it got that sweet betwix Jinny and Saul,
At last, that there wasn' no call
For any of us to interfere;
And we'd be sittin theer,
And them two crept away
Somewhere in the hay,
Or goodness knows—
And these others 'd stray Away

¹ Quiet.

Out on the hill

As paysible !¹

And the misthriss into the house,

And Nicky as quite as a mouse—

Only a sigh—and—“Thomas, my pickaninny,

We must do without Jinny.”

And then I'd turn to, and whistle and whistle.

No trees, not so big as a thistle,

Up yandher, not even a bush,

That 'd shalthar² a thrush

Or a blackbird or that, not even a thorn nor a thrammon³—

No. And plovers, of coorse, is common

Enough, and curlews ; but them things,

If they sings,

It's as much⁴—very far, very wild,

Like for a child,

¹ As peaceably as could be. ² Shelter. ³ Elder-tree.

⁴ It's as much as they do = it's barely singing.

Lek lost on the hills. "Lost! lost!" they're callin,
When the night is fallin,
And the wind is fair for them—
Well, I don't care for them.
So, ye see, no wood,
So I done what I could—
Whistled and whistled, I'll be bail;
And thought a dale—thought a dale.

So at last the night of the melyn¹ arrived;
And that very night this Jinny contrived,
By coaxin and dodgin, by this and by that,
By laughin and cryin, and the divil knows what,
To get the name—aw, wrong of them both!
But still, for all her Bible-oath,
Not a word to a sowl; and longin to tell,
To some gel,
The name—the name she loved so well.
Aw, poor Kitty!—there's never no knowin—

I'e don't see it ? Well, lave it alone !

I was only statin—you're very ann'yin ;¹—

Statin isn' justifyin.

And Jinny ?

Jinny had only the one notion—

To plaise her Saul, and get him to love her—

Aw, it's the land of Goshen

She thought she was goin to be in that night,

Or heaven itself, I wouldn' thrus'²

Hers, hers, hers—he muss !³ he muss !

But, as far as I can discover,

It's little joy or delight

She got—no, no !

Expectin though—

Expected sartin ; thought she would bind him

To her heart for ever. Slippin behind him,

I saw her, I saw her—slipt like a snake

¹ Annoying.

² Would not trust = I'm pretty certain.

³ Must.

To his ear, and a whisper—"Edward Blake"—
The chap's name. Hear I cuddn'¹—
But it must ha' been that—she done it that sudden.
But the sudd'ner² she done it, the sudd'ner Saul
Gave a leap to the door,
And her after him straight; but no use for to call
Nor to run;
He was off like the shot from a gun;
And she spent the night cryin far out on the moor.

And where was he then?

Wait, wait, my men!
One thing I'll tell ye—
I'll just be that bould³—
From the night of that melyn
Nither her nor me, nor a sowl
At the Sherragh Vane,
Ever saw Saul again—

² However suddenly.

³ Take the liberty.

Ever, ever—aw, lave it to me !

You'll see ! you'll see !

The melyn was over, and all gone away,
And everythin silent, except Nicky snorin—
And snore he did till he shuk the floorin—
So at break of day

I tuk my bundle, and started for Ramsey to catch
The Liverpool steamer ; and just where a patch¹
Of fine red ling runs out to the brew¹—
Behould ye Jinny !

Runnin to meet me too—

Runnin to meet me, thought I was Saul she had,
But she swealed² like mad—

Swealed urrov³ her like a ghost—

And I stood like a post,

And stared, and I said—

“Are ye wrong in your head ?

I doubt you done some mischief to-night,

² Squealed.

³ Out of.

Ye nasty thing !”

So she picked a bit of the ling,
And tried to look careless, and tuk to the right,
And me to the left, and tuk the fence,
And never seen her sence.¹

No—for, I’ll tell ye, this Was Saturday mornin. On the Wednesday,
When we were at say
Far away,
Me on my ship, and Saul on his,
Comes every policeman they had in Ramsey—aye—
To the Sherragh Vane—aw, never say die !
Billy-Bill-Sil, and Tom — Juan — Sam — Harry — Phaul,
And Dicky-Dick-beg — Dick — Bob, and Lace
Clucas and all,
Lace—you’ll mind Lace—
Mortal big round the waist—

¹ Since.

Shuperintendin-Inspector, or somethin o' that surt—bless ye !

And "Edward Blake, I arrest ye
In the Queen's name," and whereas, and a jag¹ and a jumble,
And—mumble, mumble, mumble.²

And he gave in at wance³—
That was the sanse⁴—
Gave in ; and "I'm ready to go
With you now, if I must." But—blast ! and blow f
And God d—— ! and "What's this ?"
And quivers the fiss⁵—
Poor Nicky, you know—
But soon as make⁶
As a lamb at⁷ Blake—
The way, you see, he trusted the chap.

² Imperfect recollections of legal phraseology. ³ Once.

⁴ Showed his sense.

⁵ Fist.

⁶ Meek.

⁷ In the hands ; through the interposition of.

And Kitty? cryin? not a scrap—

Aw, a wife for a man, and no mistake.

Yes; she kissed him, kissed him dear—

Tuk and kissed him theer:

But no sterricks,¹ I'm tould, no nisin,² no bother—

Just a look at the mother,

Just a couple of momen's,³

And these words

Like swords,

From her mouth, from her eyes, from the woman all over,

“Edward Blake is my lover,

My love, my life;

And I'll be his wife,

Or I'll never be no man's.”

That was all—

Eh, Saul?

Just that, and away she goes,

To get ready his clothes.

¹ Hysterics.

² Noise

³ Moments

And what was the row

That Blake was in ?

I'll tell you now—

Chartisin.

You don't remember ; but still

There's some of you won't, and some of you will—

Chartisisses ¹—

Them that don't want the Queen for their missus—

Five pints ²—what d'ye call it?—

Manward suff'rings, ³ vote by ballot—

A pasil ⁴ of d—— nonsense, no doubt—

Of coorse, of coorse ! and all gone out

Long before now. But the young

This Blake was then he was tuk ⁵ with the tongue

Of these swagg'rin scoundhrils that get on a tub

And roor,

To be sure—

And the people dyin for want of grub,

¹ Chartists. ² The five points of the Charter.

³ Probably "Manhood Suffrage." ⁴ Parcel. ⁵ Taken.

And ready for anything : and Blake
Turned out with the rest ; for he wouldn' forsake
The Cause, as he called it. And any ould gun,
Or pistol, or pitchfork, and off they run
To the commons¹ there, and stood to their arms
In swarms.

But the souldiers come
With sword and drum ;
And a terbil fight, and thousands kilt—
Long thousands ! and the blood that was spilt
Most terbil, I'm tould ;
And hardly a sowl
Got away
That day.
Blake didn' tell me—no ;
I've heard it from others, though.
Treminjis slaughter, and the lot of them scattered—aw, facks ! ²

¹ Moors.

² It's a fact.

So Blake made tracks
For the Cumberland mountains ; and at Ravenglass
He got aboard one of these smacks,
Or a mackarel boat, or a lugger it was—
Handy anyway, and terbil willin,¹
And landed him at Maughold Head,
And of coorse without a shillin—
Without a penny.

The rascal, you said ?
At Maughold Head, at Maughold Head—
No rascal at all, divil a bit of him !
You don't know the fit² of him—
No—bless ye ! in the Isle of Man
We don't understand
These “Polly Tricks,”³
And “knavish thricks”—
And “our hopes we fix”—

¹ Very willing to take him on board.

² The cut, the kind of fellow he was.

³ Politics.

Lek it's sayin in the song—

Right or wrong—

And The Cause! The Cause!

And Freedom! and all about these laws

That's oppressin the people. Just our own ways

Is doin for us—and the House of Keys¹—

Dear me!

They was used to be

Dacent men enough, and put in

At² one another, that was answerin

Fuss-rate, but now I'm tould

They make so bould

To be chised at³ the people—quite diff'rin cattle—

And it's tittle-tattle, rittle-rattle—

Sleet and hail—

Like a tin pot tied to the Governor's tail—

Poor man! But aisy to talk!

And put in for to make the law,

¹ The Lower House of the Manx Legislature.

² Elected by.

³ As to be chosen by.

But better to hould your jaw—

Aw, better a dale!¹

And take a chap the way you find him,

Particklar if he laves his bosh behind him—

D'ye hear? just so.

Well, Blake had to go,

Under the ould warrant that was out agen² him

All the time, and the Demster³ to send⁴ him

“Out of the Isle,”

To Lancaster Castle, to stand his tri'l.

Saul it was, Saul it was,

That done the jeel;⁵ he was down on the Cross⁶

At Ramsey straight

¹ Deal. The reference is to the change made in the mode of electing the members of the Manx Parliament. Since 1866, they have been chosen by the popular vote. Before that they were elected by co-optation.

² Against.

³ Deemster = judge.

⁴ Sent.

⁵ Mischief.

⁶ Market-place.

From the melyn that night,
And, before the day-lift,
Knocked up the High Bailiff,¹
That couldn' act
Till all was corraect—
Wrists and that, and kermoonicated²
With the Gov'nor, of coorse. But Saul didn' wait
To see the stren'th of his own shot—
It's away he got
To Liverpool, and aboard of a ship
At once; and, that very trip,
He was lost overboard in a squall—
Was Saul!

So Jinny didn' get much good
Of her schames—the price of blood—
That was it—and stayed a week
Longer; but Kitty wouldn' speak
A word with her, good or bad—

² Communicated.

And no letter
From Saul. So she had
To go at last; for even the misthriss said
She thought it was better.
I believe she got married on¹ a widow man,
That was keepin a public-house, by the name of Dan—
“Danny the Prince”
They were callin him; but his name was Cregeen;
But I never seen
The woman since.

Now Kitty had to hope and hope
Against hope;
For it seemed a case of the rope
Did yandher.²
Aye! And this kind ould goosey-gandhar
Of a Nicky was terbil good to her—
Backed her, stud to her;

¹ To.

² That did.

Kept up her heart, and kept up his own—
Bless ye! no knowin
The hot little biler¹
Of kindness and love that was under the weskit
Of Nicky. Not that the misthriss would resk² it
To rile her.
And no naggin, nor both'rin, nor fussin to Get her to think of another,
At³ the mother—
It's time the misthriss was trussin⁴ to.

But now lizzen!⁵
In this prison,
Where Blake was put, some rapsCALLION
Got up a reballion,
And a lot of thieves and murderers,
And such-like curs,
Jined him to set the jail

¹ Boiler.

² Risk.

³ On the part of.

⁴ Trusting.

⁵ Listen.

On fire; and done it—never fail!

The dirt!

And the gov'nor out in his shirt,

And his wife, and his daughter—

And—"Water! water!"

And—"All you men that's men, come here,

And stick to me!" and Blake, I'll sweer,¹

Was the very first—aw, keen as a knife!

And saved the daughter, and saved the wife—

And him and the chaps

That joined the gov'nor, I heard them sayin,

Beat these raps—

Beat them clane²—

And—of coorse! of coorse! What'll you take

But—"A free pardon for Edward Blake!!"

Aye down from London the very next day—

Hurrah for Queen Victoria!

That's the woman that can and will—

Eh, Bill?

¹ Swear.

² Clean, completely.

Hurrah! hurrah!

Yes, he was pardoned, and me to know 't,
And happen aboard the very boat
He was crossin to the Island on—
My gough! the fun
That was arrus¹ theer—
Ould Captain Creer
And that—the yarns that was spinnin—
And glasses round,
You'll be bound,²
And even the very firemen grinnin,
That's lookin rather fierce with the shoot.³

And ashore—and the cart, and Kitty to boot—
Nicky? of coorse! and him and me
On the till,⁴ and bitendin⁵ not to see.
And—this and that, and how we'd prosber'd.⁶

¹ At us=that we had. ² You may be very sure. ³ Soot.

⁴ Till-board in front. ⁵ Pretending. ⁶ Prospered.

But Kitty and Blake inside on the crossboard,
As happy. And—look at them? No, I didn'!
Only the cart made a joul't,
Like a boul't
Givin way—and I turned—and her face was hidden
In Blake's breast—
You may 'margin¹ the rest.

And up to the farm; and this ould cockalorum
Of a Nick carried everything before him—
The deuce!
No use
The misthriss houldin out—aw, floored
Reglar²—aye; and what can't be cured
Must be endured.

So the ship was righted,
And smooth water,
And a son and a daughter

¹ Imagine.

² (She was) regularly floored.

Still for all—

And poor Saul!

And I stayed to the weddin, bein invited

THE SCHOOLMASTERS.

WHAT'S he sayin? God bless the falla!

Love is love even in a sheep—

There's some that takes it middlin shalla;¹

But there's some that takes it very deep.

You mind² me tellin of Jemmy Jem,

And the son and the daughter, him and them

Up at the church agate³ of the carols—

“Shepherds watchin,” “Hark the harals!”⁴—

That night the Christmas⁵ come ashore—

Christmas Rose, I tould ye afore—

Christmas, aye.

¹ Shallow.

² Remember.

³ Engaged upon.

⁴ Herald.

⁵ See “Fo’c’s’le Yarns.”

Three schools in the parish
Them times, I remember, and putty¹ fairish
For the lek, I think. There was one at the Church,

And the little Lhen wasn' left in the lurch—
A school there, and one at the Sandy,
Up the gill, that was terbil handy
For the Jurby people; besides the school
In the Town, where none of us went of a rule,
Excep'—aw dear! poor Tommy²—but stop!
And Nelly³—eh? shut up! shut up!

Now the school at the Church was countin³ the head

Of all the three. And Clukish,⁴ bedad,
Was a splandid Masther—lek⁵ Jemmy Jem
For shortness, but Clukish all the same—
James Clukish; and sarvin⁶ for clerk

⁵ As it were (but nearly superfluous). ⁶ Serving as.

As well as schoolmaster. And Mark
Was the name of the son, called Marky the Bird;
And the daughter Maggie—they hadn' a third.

But the school at the Lhen was just for childher,
Enfans in perricuts¹—Danny Bewildher
Was the name of the Masther, callin him out
Of his proper name, that was Danny the Spout;
At laste—I don't know; but Skillicorn,
I've heard them sayin, the man was born—
Poor old Dan—aw, bless your sowl!—
Now was it Skillicorn, or Cowle?
Aw dear!

But Clukish (I'm too draggy²),
Clukish, that's the man, and Maggie,
Fuss-rate singers, father, and son,
And daughter, lek the three in one,
Tuned to a dot, most parfec it was

² Slow.

And him upon the viol-bass—
Treminjis! noted for the long
And loud and soft and full and sthrong.
And when they were sittin the whole of the three
Right in front of the gallery,
I've heard the Pazon say they were lookin
Him like a big ould angel sthroogin¹
The sthrings, and them lek² God had given
Lek wings to heave him up to heaven.

Well, me and Maggy, I'll engage,
Was just about the same age;
And Mark, of coorse, would be younger rather;
And the two of them goin to school to the father:
But me to the little school at the Lhen,
With Danny Bewildher—poor ould Dan!
The like of a school like that you never—
Aw, Danny thought he was taechn clever;
But letters—no! the A B C?

¹ Stroking.² Looking as if.

And spells, and that? all fiddlededee !
“Latthars !” he’d say, “idikkiliss !”¹
Just clap a Testament in their fiss,²
And off they go—aw, bless your heart !
They’ll read soon enough, if ye give them a start.
Latthars ! latthars ! bewild’rin the childher”—
And so they were callin him Danny Bewildher.

Poor Dan ! “a start,” he said, “only a start ;”
But, of coorse, we were gettin it off by heart.
That was Dan. So we wasn’ goin
To the same school ; but still I was knowin
The two very well. They were just a taste
Shuperior lek, the way they were dressed—
Shoes and stockins—and me—aw, chut !
Never had such a thing on my fut,
Excep’ a’ Sunday.

But meetin them down

¹ Ridiculous.

² Fist.

On the shore very often or up on a ground
We were callin the Lhergy,¹ covered with goss²
And flowers. And aw the nice it was
Of an everin³ to be up there,
And hear them singin ! Well, I declare
It was mortal altogether.⁴ You see
There's nothin pleasanter to me :
I was allis terbil fond of music—
Not of my own ! aw, I'd have the whole crew sick
If once I begun on you—No, no, no !
But this Maggie—beautiful ! up she'd go,
Up—up—up, to the very sky.
“Give us the lark !” I'd say, and she'd fly—
At laste her vice⁵—aw, the happy for hours
Sittin up there among the flowers.

And all the notes that ever you heard—
That's the raison⁶ of Marky the Bird—

Imitatin—bless ye, then !

Everything from a hawk to a wren—

Thrushes, blackbirds—very rum !

“Chit, chit !” he’s sayin, meanin “Come !”

“Come !” and the pewhit answerin clever—

“Cha jig thy braa !”¹ that’s maynin, “Never !”

That’s “Take a smook !” the bird is sayin—

Aye—“Chanel thy pingan ammee !”

“I havn’ a penny”—obverse,² dammee !

Curious, though, very, splainin³—

And everything has got its maynin.⁴

Aw, Mark was grand—“Curlew ! curlew !”

What’s that at all ? no more till⁵ boo—

Nothin just. But Mark had gorrit,⁶—

“Mirrieu !⁷ mirrieu !”—far more horrit !⁸

¹ This and some expressions following are Manx, but somewhat corrupt.

² Obvious.

³ Explaining.

⁴ Meaning.

⁵ Than.

⁶ Got it.

⁷ Dead.

⁸ Horrid.

“Mirrieu,” dead—lek its mate, you know—
“Dead ! dead ! she’s dead !”—aw, terbil though,
That bird, like left, like feelin lonely.
And me?—aw, bless ye ! one bird only,
Just a rook—they said I dunnit¹
Fuss-rate ; and aisy, once I begun it ;
But stopped it soon ; and her with the lark ;
And—“Mirrieu ! mirrieu !” that was Mark.

Aw, little things thim times : but grew,
Till at last the battle of Waterloo²
Betwix my mother and Danny, that plied me
With the cane one day till he nearly destroyed me.
And home I run, and—“Mother ! mother !”
And—“Dan hev kilt³ me !” And—“What’s this bother ?”

And takes and hits me a clout on the head,
And looks me all over, and “Come !” she said.
And away with me there ; and in on⁴ the school—

And—"What's this," she says, "ye dirty fool?

Ye bogh!¹ ye kyout² ye! you a man?

You sniffikin³ creep!"⁴ she says to Dan—

"You?" and just a disgrace

To the place—

And the Bishop and the Archdakin—

Aye—and she'd be spakin

To the Pazon—'deed she'd let him know!

She would so!

And pins him theer against the wall,

And turns me up, and shows him all.

"Gerr out!"⁵ says Dan; "Gerr out!" says he

"Is it out?" she says, and droppin me,

"Is it out?" and grips an inkstand there,

And ups and lets him have it fair

Betwix the eyes—aw, the ink and the blood!

And Danny all smotherin where he stood,

⁴ Sneak.

Get out.

And puffin and blowin, and spatt'rin and sputt'rin,
And all the dirt goin sloppin and gutt'rin
Down his breast, and—his shirt? my annim!¹
Never had the lek upon him,
Nor the name o' the lek.

“Gerr urrov² this school!”

Says Dan, and makes a grab at a stool,
And a run and a drive, and she couldn' recover her
Footin, and down, and Danny over her!
So there they were rowlin, and crish! crash!
And the furrims³ capsized, and mixed in a mash
Of murder—bless ye! stuck to him manful—
Aye, and handful after handful
Of Danny's hair went flyin about;
And the childher all began to shout,
The boys to cheer, and the gels to cry;
And then I come behind on the sly,
And caught this Danny a clip on the ear,

² Out of.

³ Forms.

And he turned, and she saw her chance, and got clear,

And up and off with us—aw, it's a fac'—
And left poor Danny on his back.

Well, then I was goin to school at the Church,
To Clukish himself, that was usin a birch,
But very little, or a leather strap—
But mostly he was givin ye a rap
On the head with his knuckles—and a little hem!
Aw, a grand ould man was Jemmy Jem.

Taechin! What was there he couldn' taech?
Bless ye! aye, and powerful to praech
In the chapel; but taechin! Mensuration—
Aw, splendid! Taech it? like a bird!
But ye couldn' understand a word—
Well, ye wouldn' expec'—lek a man, that way,²

That never was a week at say—

No, no! A tailor he was to his trade,

And many's the pair of breeches he made

In yandher school,—cut out, you know,

On the desk afore him; and sew and sew—

And—“Come say! come say!”¹—aw, the little sinners

We were, to be sure! and—“Take your dinners!”

He'd shout as hearty at twelve o'clock—

Aw, a fine ould cock! a fine ould cock!

I didn' larn much, but there's plenty that did.

There was one little chap with a big round head—

Ye never seen the round²—by jing!

That chap was larnin everything.

And the more he larned, the bigger it got—

This head—and the rounder, just like a pot.

¹ “Come up to the desk, and say your tasks,” a customary formula: so, “Take your dinners,” the form of dismissal at noon.

² Anything so round.

"Look at that boy!" ould Clukish was sayin ;
"Fit enough to make your tay in—
That head," he'd say, "like a bottomless pit ;
There's nothin that doesn' go into it—
Nothin," says Clukish. And right, no doubt :
It all went in, and it never come out—
Never—so couldn' be no loss
At¹ yandher chap. It's stored it was In the big round head. My gough ! it's grand
To have a head that'll grow and 'spand,²
And never leak a drop—the pride
Of the mother ! But, of coorse, he died—
Sartinly—aw, died, of coorse—
Ye see, the workin and the foorce
Of all that was in him, just like a biler,
And no safety-valve, nor no grease for th' ile³ her—
Nor nothin—ye see?

No, I didn' larn quick,

And I didn' larn much, But I got very thick
With Maggy and Mark. And, when I got higher
In the school, they coaxed me to come in the quire,

And I did : and even after I left,
I stuck to it—aye, and made a sheft¹
To sing somethin—tannor² I was wantin—
Tannor—aye ; but allis³ slantin
Into the bass, and—loo-loo-loo !⁴
And settled to somethin betwix the two—
Rather doubtful, of a manner.⁵
But Mark was singin the counter-tannor—
See-saw, most beautiful ! sixes and sevens—
And Maggie up in the heaven of heavens.

And so we got big : and then—doodoss !⁶
I seen the lovely Maggie was.
Milk and roses, milk and roses—

⁵ In a way=somehow. ⁶ Good gracious !

That was the complexion—Moses !
The beautiful she was when she threw
Back her head, and the throat came in view,
Round and white and big, the way
It mostly is with singers, they say—
Fine singers—bless ye the full !
Like a belliss !¹ like a bull !
And the strings of her bonnet untied, and flung
Over her shouldhers ; and the vice of her rung—
Aw, it rung ! it rung ! and all her breast
Was swelled to the feel of the happiness—
The joy—the glory—the—chut² ! it's no use—
“Be cautious ! be cautious !” says Billy Baroose.

But Mark was a terbil sorrowful chap—
Lemoncholy³—that's the tap.
And the ouldher he grew, the lemoncholier
He got. And nobody couldn' be jollier,
Nor heartier, ye know; till⁴ me—

But Mark was allis for poethry.

But the sorrowful—bless ye ! lek¹ it was bred

In the falla—Mirrieu ! mirrieu !—dead !

Just so. And “Lizzen” !² and then he’d repate
Pomes³ that’d buss⁴ the heart of a skate—

His own composin—aye, and still

I was likin to hear him terrible.

’Deed⁵ he’d make ye cry—and a lightish slaeper,⁶

And went to the town to be a draper.

And me and Betsy⁷ goin together—

And Maggie keepin house for the father—

And a good job too—at laste, so it appears—

A widda man,⁸ and had been for years.

And Maggie and me would be about twenty ;

And me agate⁹ o’ the fishin, and plenty

To do, I can tell ye, to keep the pot bilin,

⁶ He was rather a light sleeper : cf. The Squire in Chaucer’s Prologue.

⁷ See “Fo’c’s’le Yarns.” ⁸ Widower. ⁹ Engaged upon.

When—lo and behold ye! there came to the Islan'

A terbil man.

Inspector they called him,
Inspector of Schools; and tuk and hauled¹ him
From parish to parish—the work that was in!²
And so at last he come to the Lhen,
And hed it out with Danny Dan.

“Latthars!” says Danny, “latthars! dear heart!
Bewild’rn the childhar—give them a start!
Latthars! what’s latthars? idikkiliss!
Clap a Testament in their fiss!”—
“No,” says the Inspector, “just clap this!”
And whips a book from his starn³ pocket—
“Now then!” Bless ye! a Congreve rocket
'd hev⁴ done just as well—not a bit! not a bit!

² What excitement there was!

³ Coat-tail.

⁴ Would have.

Not the one of them—not a line of it !
And the childhar stared—
“ They’re not prepared ! ”
Says Danny, and argued and argued away,
Till he was black in the face, as a body might say.
And then he jawed, lek fit to buss ;¹
And then he gave a bit of a cuss ;
And then the Inspector brought him up
All standin—poor divil ! and—“ Stop, sir, stop ! ”
Says he. “ In all my ’sperience
I never seen such ignorance.
And it’ll be my duty to repoort ”
Lek presentin to the coort—
Or whatever it is—coort, or commission—
Something—“ total inefficien’ ”—
Inefficien’—that’s their talk.
And so poor Danny had to walk ;
And home to his people in Kirk Bride,
And kept at ² the Pazon till he died.

And the Bishop come, and the Captain¹ there,
And the Lord knows who, and spakin fair;
And they'd have the school in proper order.
And so we were hearin nothin furdher
Till one day there come a Scotchman—aye—
For² the schoolmaster.

He wasn' shy,
This Scotchman, at all—aw, 'deed be wasn':
For the cheek he might have been fuss-cosin³
To Ould Harry himself. Aw, the cock o' that nose!
And the strut, and the lip, and the tasty clothes!
And snuff and snarl, and snip and snap—
He was what you'd call a pushin chap—
Pushin, bedad! and a new light,
And come to set us all right,
That was sittin in darkness and the shadow of death;

¹ Captain of the Parish (a Manx official).

² To be.

³ First-cousin.

And his name was Alexander Macbeth.

But the chap was good-lookin—that's the pint,
And a tongue in his head like a 'varsal jint.
He could make it bitter, and he could make it sweet;

He could lift a gel from off her feet
With that tongue. And schaemin! bless ye, the schaemin!

And plannin and plottin, and watchin and aimin—
Keen though, as keen as a hungry gull,
And still he could look that sorrowful,
And groanin, and hintin, and his eye all brimmin
With the tears—aw, they're likin that is women—
Being nath'ral kind, you'll undherstand,
And longin to comfort every man—
Special if he's handsome, of coorse!
Sartinly; but work the oors,¹
Work the oors.

It wasn' long
Afore Mr. Sandy was at it ding-dong
To get the school from Clukish—aye,
The principal school—aw, never say die!
And he worked and he worked, like thingumagee,
Till the Bishop appointed a commitee.
And a committee, it's like¹ you're aware,
'll do anything; anything, I'll swear,
Committees 'll do—just so, just so—
'Deed they will.

But whether or no,
This Alec Macbeth was at² Clukish himself;
And "Time to be layin upon the shelf:"
And cocked him up with humbug and flattery,
And "My exc'lin colleague!" and Dear me! the *batthar*³ he
Would be with a pension, and Wouldn' he now?
And "Eh, Miss Clukish?" and bow-wow-wow!

¹ It is likely.² Went to.³ Better.

The dirt!¹ and gorr² it all “arranged”
Grand, I tell ye. And so he changed
From the Lhen to the Parish: but Clukish still
To be clerk—and quite agreeable.
Tired—and lek everything in its saison.

But ould Clukish had another raison,
Another, I tell ye. He seen this rascal
Was gettin spoony on Maggie; and ask all
The Parish, and they’d ha’ tould ye at once
The match was a splendid one, a chance
That wouldn’ often come Maggie’s way.
I’ve asked the Pazon, and what did he say?
“Mr. Macbeth is a man of promise,
And a most respectable person, Thomas;
And very interestin, and clever”—
Azackly³ so! Now, did you ever?
Even the Pazon! ’Spectable? paff!⁴
Clever? aye, too clever by half.

Euclid—that was some stuff he was workin'
With these lumps,¹ that could as aisy swallow a perkin.²

High, man! high—aw, bless your sowl!
Didn' a woman come and scowl
And complain; and says she, "We're gettin' no rest
Of the night," she says, "with this foolishness.
He's shoutin' most terbil in his sleep,
And me and the father can't get a peep.
And we won't stand it! no!" she said.
And he spoke her so fine; and—"Raelly! in bed!"
And he laughed, and he carried on that plaisin³
That the woman went away amazin'
'The satisfied: and sleep is money;
But that chap's tongue was the divil's own honey.

And Mark was delightin' in him, too—
Aw, bless ye! he knew his Mark, he knew
The soft sort of chap—a pote!⁴ a pote!

Wasn' he one himself? and 'd know 't
In Mark at once. And heaves up the eye,
If ye seen them together, and sigh for sigh,
And groan for groan; and takin turns
Repeatin their pomes. And "The Manx Burns"
He'd be callin Marky—you'll never rag urrov¹
A Scotchman but he'll take a shockin brag urrov
That Burns. "Tim Shindy"²—aye, just so—
"Catch her a' Saturday," "Scots whoho!"
Of coorse! of coorse! You're mortal fond of them
Aren' ye, Andra?³ Andra's one of them.

So Mark was altogether tuk with him;
And the Pazon too. Aw dear! worse luck with him!
And me? Well, no; but I'd nothin to say,

¹ Never worry it out of a Scotchman=never induce him to do otherwise than brag greatly about. Urrov=out of: to take a brag out of=to brag about.

² The reader will recognise adumbrations of three famous poems by Burns.

³ Are you not, Andrew?

And every dog must have his day.
What was my 'pinion worth to be puttin
Against the Pazon's? Not a button.
And the Pazon was hardly likin him,
Lek what you call likin—that's not the trim.¹
The Pazon, ye see, was allis for pace,²
But equal, too, for righteousness,
And justice betwix man and man—
Aw, he'd work it well if once he began,
But he wouldn' go out of his way for a fight—
Righteousness, the thing that's right—
That was the Pazon. And Dr. Bell
The same: the chap was maenin well,
They thought. "Sincere," the Pazon said;
And the "valable qualities" he had—
"Valuable," the Pazon was sayin,
He spoke that sweet, and slow, and plain.

Of coorse the Pazon was diff'rin' from me,

² Always for peace.

The two of them bein such schullars, you see,
And knowin a dale about books and such,
The Pazon was likin his talk very much—
Likin his talk; you see, they were maetin
On the same floors,¹ and the nither baetin²—
Maetin, not baetin—and still, for all,³
I believe he could give the Pazon a fall
Now and then, bein slippy and slim;
And nice for the Pazon, remindin him
Of the time he was young, and could argufy
With the best of them. And he wouldn' try
To flatter the Pazon: he knew like a spit⁴
That wouldn' take the Pazon a bit.
And if he was bould, ye know, and imprin,⁵
The Pazon never liked them simprin,
Cringin divils—and nathral kind.⁶
So the Pazon was grippin him mind to mind.

² Neither getting the better of the other. ³ After all.

⁴ Easily, at once. Impudent.

⁶ And besides (the Parson) was naturally kind.

But heart to heart was rather me,¹
Heart to heart, ye know, lek it would be—
Enstinct,² isn' it, they're sayin' ?
Feelins lek—lek I couldn' explain ;
Couldn' grip with him, hadn' the head ;
But I could hate him ; and so I did.
But only a boy, and nothin to shove me
Much in his road, that was quite above me—
Hardly know'n me, bless ye ! no ;
Nor me him ; and so—and so.

And Maggie, what 'd ye do with her ?³
Lovin him like Lucifer.
That was the deuce—no good to fret,
Love's golden net ! love's golden net—
Gold ! gold ! pure gold ! but, sink or float,
Iron is only cobwebs to 't.
Caught was Maggie—caught, caught, caught !
No matter the oughtn', no matter the ought.

¹ My way.² Instinct.³ What would you have ?

Aw, I seen it—that was enough for me—
I'd had my doubts; but see is see—
At a stile on a Sunday afternoon,
The stayin, the delayin,
The snatchin, the catchin,
The detainin, the complainin,
The head so sweetly iaenin
On your shouldher—
Don't be bouldher!
On a Sunday, on a Sunday, on a Sunday, on a Sunday,
On a Sunday, on a Sunday afternoon.
Yes, I seen her at the stile,
Such a smile, at the stile,
Bless the chile! at the stile,
At the stile, at the stile, at the stile, at the stile,
Of a Sunday afternoon.

There now! take and make a tune
For my song; they'll print it for you in Doolish.¹

¹ Douglas.

Dear heart ! you'll think I'm gettin foolish.
But if you'll see that at a stile, my men,
On a Sunday afternoon, why then
You may make up your minds what's goin to be,
And all the rest is fiddlededee.

Behaved hisself? Of coorse, he done ¹—
Had to behave hisself, my son.
But hang it ! give the divil his due,
Just the same as I would to you—
Now stow your chaff there, Barney O'Grady !
He traited her like a puffec ² lady.

So now it's for a Pazon he was goin :
And how he managed there's no knowin ;
But got the Bishop to examine him,
And some way or other contrived to gammon him
To promise to ordain him—ordain—
Isn' that the word ? whatever they mane—

And curate! curate, I'll be bail,
Goin for a curate to Pazon Gale.
And would have been the very next day,
If it hadn'—— but stay, my lads, now! stay!

That ev'rin,¹ I tell ye, there come a woman,
Along the road though, cryin uncommon—
Cryin, cryin, cryin there—
“Where's my Sandy? where, oh where?
Where's my Sandy? my Alexander?
Where is he? where is he?” and had cried like yandher²

All the passage from Whitehaven,
“Where's my Sandy, div ye ken?”³
And up the pier, and the market-place,
“Where's my Sandy?” and wouldn' cease.
And she didn' regard for none that blamed her—
For of coorse there was people that fie-for-shamed her—

¹ Evening.

² Like that.

³ Do you know?

And a pleeceman gev her directions to go ;
And "Sandy ! Sandy !" she was shoutin, though

And come upon the village street,
And could hardly stand upon her feet—
And the women about her, and—"Get some brandy !"

But she wouldn' taste it—"Sandy ! Sandy !
Where's my Sandy ?" And they tried some rum ;
And a call for Sandy : so Sandy come.

Yes, he come ; and just gave a look ;
And then they say the fellow shook
All over ; and then his face all fire,
And straightened hisself like goin to deny her ;
And then a rush, and her arms was round him,
And his round her. "I've found him ! found him !"
She said. And he tuk her into the house,
And shut the door, and as quite¹ as a mouse

¹ Quiet.

All night, they were say'n, and plenty to listen,
And fancyin they were hear'n them kissin.
But never a word of any complaint—
It's lek the poor craythur was that content
For to have him again. And before the dawn
They were off, and just a bundle,¹ gone
To Douglas, and afterwards over to Anglan²—
No nise,³ no bother, no worry, no wranglin—
Just off. The woman, ye see, was his wife—
I don't know, upon my life,
How they're doin it—hotch-potch,
Lek accordin to the Scotch⁴—
But lawful, I tell ye; so you'd better look out!
Lawful—not the smallest doubt.

And the chap was poor, and she'd worked like a slave

To keep him at one of these places they have
For preparin people for schoolmasters,

¹ All their luggage. ² England. ³ Noise. ⁴ Scotch fashion.

And pazons and that—St. Bars? St. Burs?
St. Bees—that's it, and hardly fair—
I've heard them tellin that's seen her there
In a little room, and to brew and bake for him,
And pickin sticks to bake a cake for him.

Well now—Maggie? Hould your kedge!¹
I seen her spreadin clothes on the hedge
Of the garden, it wouldn' be more till² a week
After that, and I thought I'd speak;
And—"How are tha,³ Maggie, how are tha, gel?"
"Aw," she said, "I'm very well."

Very well! very well!

Toull⁴ the bell! toull the bell!
When ye know what it's meanin⁵—that very well!

She died next day—quite aisy, they said—
Mirrieu! mirrieu! dead! dead!

⁴ Toll.

² Than.

⁵ It means.

³ Art thou.

Dead! And Mark? He dropped the draper,
And tuk to writin for some paper.

So ye see there's some that takes it deep?

Upon my sowl, the chap's asleep!

All right!

Good night!
